SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 3.

Q—Your name is Paul N. Dwyer? A—Yes, sir.

Q—You are now an inmate of the state prison at Thomaston? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you murder Dr. James G. Littlefield? A—No, sir, I did not.

Q—Did you see him murdered? A—Yes, sir, I did.

Q—Who did murder him? A—Francis Carroll.

Text of Dwyer Testimony

Here is the testimony of Paul N. Dwyer, 18, serving a life sentence at Maine State Prison, Thomaston, but who has repudiated his confession to the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield.

Dwyer charges that former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll, father of Barbara, 17, former sweetheart of Dwyer, is the slayer.

Direct testimony, Special Prosecutor Ralph M. Ingalls questioning:

Q—Your name is Paul N. Dwyer? A—Yes, sir.

While Battle Rages

2nd Jap Protest

TOKYO, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Japanese government directed its second protest in 24 hours to Soviet Russia today, in an effort by diplomacy to end bitter fighting along the Russian Siberia-Japanese Manchoukuo frontier.

The fighting still was in progress early today between large forces of well-equipped troops with airplanes and tanks, but officials insisted there was little likelihood that the numerous incidents of the past five days would develop into a formal war.

Japanese here believed the border trouble was merely a Russian effort to delay troop movements to aid the Japanese offensive in China against Hankow, the provisional capital of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government, or possibly to cloak internal difficulties.

It was for this reason, apparently, that officials still hoped for diplomatic adjustment of the trouble, which originated in Soviet fortifications of Changkufeng Hill July 11.

The first of the newest protests was delivered in Moscow by F. Miyakawa, secretary to the Japanese embassy, on Tuesday against "Soviet lawlessness," the foreign office spokesman announced.

The ambassador to Moscow, Mamoru Shigemitsu, was directed to deliver the second protest personally today to the Russian foreign minister, Maxim Litvinoff.

MOSCOW, Aug. 3 (INS)—Soviet Russia's huge population was swept today by a wave of patriotic rage against Japanese militarists.

While a major conflict raged along the Siberian-Manchukuoan frontier between Soviet and Japanese troops for possession of disputed Changkufeng hill, the Moscow press published news of the crisis almost to the exclusion of everything else.

Both Pravda and Izvestia, two of the Soviet Union's most influential newspapers, devoted their entire first and second pages to the Far Eastern situation and everywhere Soviet citizens excitedly read the news.

Another Battle: Man vs. Swordfish

SAILOR STILL CHAMPION—When a swordfish impaled him against the side of his dory, Frank Fereria didn't lose his head—but "got" the fish. Now, he's at Chelsea Marine Hospital recovering with the aid of Dr. John B. Holt, his leg badly mangled.

Battles to the Death With Big Swordfish at Sea

The swordfish won the first round.

But stocky, bushy-mustached Bittie Doryman Frank Fereria wasn't going to let any sea critter—even a 600-pounder — stab him through the leg and get away with it.

So, as Fereria told the story today, in Chelsea Marine hospital:

"That big fish's sword, it had my leg pinned to the wood of the dory.

"You think I let go the harpoon line? No!

"I hold the line with one hand, I grab my leg with the other and I yank myself loose off that sword.

"Sure, it hurt some, and bleed plenty. But you bet I don't let that feller get away after what he did. Anyhow, he's worth money.

"I make the harpoon line fast, first, then I start to row back to the schooner.

"The swordfish, he's pull loose, too, and try to swim off. But the harpoon's still in him, and I got the line.

"Pretty soon, the boys from the schooner come for me in another dory.

"On board ship, Captain Sears fixes up my leg good with stuff to stop the hurt and the bleeding.

"The other boys kill that swordfish quick, and haul him in. That makes 34 we get on the trip.

"Not so bad, even if Captain Sears does have to put back fast all the way from Georges Banks to Boston, to bring me here to the hospital.

"How'd that swordfish catch me? Oh, I put out in the dory to get him, then he kind of come to and started for me, whoosh, like a bull.

"I brace my legs against the side of the boat, so I won't go overboard, and when the sword come through the wood, my leg is right there handy to get stabbed."

16 Planes Fall In China Battle

HANKOW, Aug. 3 (INS)—Twelve Japanese and four Chinese planes were shot down today in one of the most spectacular air battles of the war as Chinese fighters nearly frustrated a raid on Hankow.

After 24 Years

New War Due Soon

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Dean of American War Correspondents

(Copyright, 1938, by International News Service)

BERLIN, Aug. 3—Twenty four years ago on August 2, 1914, I rushed to the Army Oberkommand, or army headquarters, in Berlin near the Kaiser's palace to get my passes as a correspondent to cover the coming war.

It was my first war.

In the intervening 24 years, a new crop of cannon fodder has grown up.

The world has learned nothing from that great carnage—least of all youth.

They were being told, and thousands believe it, that in spite of the birth pangs of motherhood and the unstinted love lavished upon them, life's ultimate and greatest purpose and heroic destiny is to be torn to fragments by shells and bombs, or have a bayonet jabbed into you, or be riddled by machine-gun bullets and fertilize the soil with your flesh and bones.

MILLIONS DIED

Ten million, the flower of manhood of Germany, Britain, France, Italy and other countries, died in that blood-bath. The world seems no better, no wiser for it.

Since that afternoon I have reported eight wars and big revolutions, not counting my recent trip to the China War.

Today I have been thinking much about which side I should go on to cover, if I have time to make the choice, or whether I should best rest on my laurels. Black indeed are the clouds on the horizon.

There is war in Spain, there is war in China, there is war in Palestine.

PAEANS OF PRAISE

Little Serbia, down in the Balkans, precipitated the World War, and everybody piled into it and statesmen far from the firing lines sang paeans of praise to each other for having "made the world safe for democracy" and rescuing "our civilization." They have been laying wreaths ever since.

Little Czechoslovakia, the last citadel of near-democracy in Central Europe, may bring the next war.

It is a matter of speculation whether Moscow started the fighting at Changkufeng to divert the Japanese from capture of Hankow, or whether Japan, to please Germany, began it to fasten Moscow's eyes on the Far East and divert Russian attention from her ally, Czechoslovakia—or whether unfathomable destiny is playing her own hand.

Unconformed reports say that Stalin for the first time in 20 years, has called the supreme council of Soviet Russia.

Donor's Blood To Aid Baby

Police of two states were rushing a Newport, R. I., youth to Norwood today, in a last desperate hope that a transfusion of his blood might save the life of two-year-old Dick Sullivan.

Dick was near death today from leukemia, rare and usually fatal blood disease.

His parents, Town Treasurer Edmund F. Sullivan and Mrs. May Sullivan, felt chances of his recovery were tragically slender.

The mother was prostrated by grief. The father was sitting, haggard and silent, by little Dick's bed.

GETS POLICE ESCORT

Still hopeful, however, was Francis Dunn, of Norwood, a cousin.

It was he today who arranged with Rhode Island police for a motorcycle escort to hurry to Norwood, Frank Domingo of Newport, R. I.

Domingo once was a victim of leukemia and was near death. But he amazed doctors by recovering.

Hearing of little Dick Sullivan's plight today, Domingo offered his blood for a transfusion.

Norwood Hospital surgeons said they'd type Domingo's blood and, if it matched Dick Sullivan's, they'd try the transfusion, as a last resort.

NOTIFIES CHIEF

So all was made ready at the hospital, and Francis Dunn passed the word along to Police Chief William Kinderlon of Warwick, R. I.

He and Chief Albose of Middletown, R. I., sent an auto and an escort to get Domingo at the latter's Newport home.

Massachusetts state police were notified.

They waited at the Rhode Island border.

BETTE DAVIS
Fans Acclaim Blonde Star

Wind Blows Scarlett Role Toward Bette Davis

Bette Davis in the role of Scarlett in "Gone with the Wind" now seems a certainty.

Almost by acclaim, fans of the blond Newton screen star—one of America's really great actresses—today swept their favorite to the forefront in the perplexing race for the nation's most coveted role.

And this acclaim may bring almost over-night selection according to Louella O. Parsons, noted critic for the Hearst newspapers.

Norma Shearer gave up her Scarlett role. David Selznick gave up the story to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Now, Warner Brothers may give up Bette Davis for filming of the famous story of Margaret Mitchell.

Already, Miss Davis has won nation-wide recognition for her "Jezebel," a role not unlike that of Scarlett.

In recent years Miss Davis faithfully has played a succession of roles which have brought her to the threshold of being Hollywood's best known emotional actress.

Others mentioned for the role of Scarlett include Katharine Hepburn, Margaret Sullavan and Miriam Hopkins.

"Bette would be a most popular choice," Miss Parsons declared today.

"I'd hate to see Katharine Hepburn play the part, for I don't think she could do it.

"Margaret Sullavan would be good, but with the stork already flapping its wings, it would be another year and a half before she'd be ready."

'Reverse' Compass Sent to Corrigan

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3 (AP)—Mayor Frank L. Shaw, arranging Los Angeles' welcome for Douglas Corrigan, wants to be sure the New York-to-Dublin flier will arrive—so he sent him a compass on which th needle points south instead of north.

Corrigan claims he thought he was flying to California instead of Eire.

Corrigan Clan, Hundreds Strong, To Hail Hero Here

It's going to be a great day for the Corrigans.

They'll be turning out in force Monday to welcome to Boston the darling of the Corrigan family, Douglas "Non-Stop" Corrigan.

New York will greet him tomorrow, and he'll be lionized there over the week-end.

But when he is brought here, by airplane, bright and early Monday, he'll be met by the cheers of more Corrigans than could be assembled anywhere else, this side of Dublin.

And there'll be many an eye of Irish blue sparkling at him from the crowds which will be waiting for him all along his triumphal Boston route.

That's now scheduled to be from East Boston airport to Wood Island, East Boston, then through Charlestown to Boston Common.

The plan is to give all sections of the city a chance to see the "East-Is-West" New York-to-Dublin flier.

Lift 'Seeing Eye' Ban, Blind U. S. Girl Asks King

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Hazel Hurst, 22-year-old blind American, appealed to King George VI and American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy today to waive British animal quarantine restrictions which prevent her from taking her Alsatian dog guide into England.

She rejected the offer of a one-eyed man to have his eye transferred to her by surgical means. She also refused the offer of a British guide dog.

The Oneonta N. Y., girl wired King George after James A. Wallace, aged 37, wrote her:

"I pray you to forgive me for writing and will in no way be offended if I offer you my right eye if it could be transferred to you by an optical surgeon."

Guard Against Shirley Relapse

As Shirley Temple's "public" impatiently awaited the little star's first swanboat ride in the Public Gardens, her parents and personal physician hoped today the trip would not cause a recurrence of her recent illness.

It was learned they feared the excitement of the occasion, the torrid heat and the crush of the crowds of admiring fans might induce a relapse.

Their solicitude for the diminutive screen star was overridden, however, by a Hollywood publicity representative traveling with the party.

This same publicity agent has been trying to persuade Shirley's parents to continue her tour regardless of the doctors' advice, it is understood.

GAZES AT PASSENGERS

All morning Shirley had been making periodical appearance at her 14th-floor windows of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, overlooking the Garden, to gaze at the swanboat passengers as they circled the tiny pool.

For four days she has been a virtual prisoner in the Temple suite because of illness and subsequent convalescence.

The swan boat ride is probably Shirley's last public Boston appearance as plans have been almost completed by her parents, to whisk her out of the city tomorrow on the first leg of the return trip to California—this time by train.

To handle the crowds Commissioner Timilty detailed 50 patrolmen and five sergeants to escort Shirley across the street from the hotel to the swanboat landing stage.

Plainclothes detectives from the pickpocket squad will mingle with spectators and a detail under Capt. Thomas O'Dea will handle traffic at the hotel and environs.

Another distinguished personage was unable to see Shirley today although a fellow-guest with her under the Ritz-Carlton roof.

MRS. COOLIDGE AT HOTEL

She was Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who registered last night at the hotel and who checked out this morning without seeing the little star.

The widow of the former President left her card, however, and left word she hoped Shirley had fully recovered from her illness.

The juvenile movie star will board the Public Garden swanboat with considerable fanfare, for she has been made "admiral" of the fleet of pleasure craft.

Quell Near-Riot At Milk Station

More than 200 applicants for free milk milled outside the Battery street WPA milk station, North End, today and 12 patrolmen were needed to quell a disturbance.

Trouble started when officials announced the milk supply had given out because of today's consignment being delayed.

Several applicants threw newspapers and the crowd milled around the door chanting:

"We want our milk!"

Policemen dispersed them.

WPA officials said milk would be distributed later today.

Virginia Vote Rejects Deal Candidates

By the Associated Press

Roosevelt backers and anti-administration candidates divided the Democratic honors today in four primary elections.

Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, foe of the court bill and other White House measures, won a landslide renomination. So did Senator George McGill of Kansas, loyal follower of the President.

The same division extended to nominations for House seats in two other states. Three West Virginia representatives who have supported the President defeated their opponents, but in Virginia two avowed New Dealers lost out.

3-TO-1 FOR SMITH

Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia, whose district includes the "home towns" of George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, won a 3-to-1 victory over William E. Dodd, Jr., son of the former ambassador to Germany. The vote, with 10 precincts missing, was: Smith, 19,691; Dodd, 6530.

The only other Virginia House race was much closer. Rep. Norman Hamilton, calling himself pro-Roosevelt, despite his vote against the government reorganization bill, lost by about 1500 votes to former Rep. Colgate Darden, whom he had unseated in 1936. Hamilton said Darden was backed by Senator Harry Byrd's organization.

WINROD LOSES

In the Kansas senatorial race the nomination went to former Governor Clyde Reed.

Reed polled 94,548 votes in 2386 of Kansas' 2706 precincts. Knapp, attorney, had 58,669. Winrod lagged with 48,205 and the Rev. J. C. Fisher, had 23,746.

Governor Walter Huxman, Democrat, was renominated without opposition.

In a smashing setback to the Pendergast machine in Kansas City, Judge James M. Douglas, St. Louis, today held the Democratic nomination for Missouri state supreme court judge.

Douglas, backed by Governor Lloyd C. Stark and the St. Louis city hall administration, defeated Judge James V. Billings, who was supported by the Pendergast Kansas City organization.

With 3,350 of the state's 4,426 precincts reported, the vote was: Douglas, 304,330; Billings, 244,596.

Whitcomb's Name Stays on Ballot

Attorney General Paul A. Dever announced today the name of Richard Whitcomb, former head of Boston's survey committee, would appear on the primary ballot.

Dever said Whitcomb, a Republican candidate for governor, had complied with all election laws despite the fact he had not received a certificate from the registry of voters in Springfield, his home city.

AFL Hits Acts Of State Board

By JOHN W. ENGLISH
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

WORCESTER, Aug. 3—With the "gate-crashing" strategy of former Governor Curley still uppermost in mind, delegates to the convention of the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor today turned their attention to problems of domestic and foreign affairs.

Alleged unfair decisions by the State Labor Relations Board evoked fiery comment from the convention floor as a resolution condemning recent rulings of that body came up for discussion.

Other resolutions to be brought before the delegates include a demand for a popular referendum before declaration of war; insistence of an isolation policy for the United States in foreign intercourse and a ban on the use of American arms to rescue American investments threatened abroad by war.

At the same time it was announced that a "dark horse" had entered the two-way contest for presidency of the Massachusetts federation branch.

He was Anthony De Andrade of Boston, International Printing Pressmen Union delegate, and a vice-president of the federation.

Nicholas P. Morrissey of Boston, Teamsters' Union delegate, and also a federation vice-president, has already launched his candidacy to succeed retiring President John J. Gatelee.

Governor Hurley yesterday addressed the delegates in his position as chief executive, but others who are candidates for political office were told that speeches "were out," by Gatelee.

Suddenly, Curley appeared in the hall and was given the floor in a unanimous vote of the delegates, thereby over-ruling the earlier decision of Gatelee.

CURLEY SEES VICTORY

Governor Hurley said:

"I am sure as your governor, not as a candidate for political office. However, when I return after the primaries, it will be to ask you to help me defeat the reactionary Republicans and 'return the entire Democratic ticket to office."

Former Governor Curley said:

"I am not here to praise Caesar, who presides over this Commonwealth, but to bury him. I will address you in another year not as an ex-governor but as your governor."

Curley told the delegates he was proud that President Green of the A. F. of L. had said of his administration that Massachusetts was becoming the laboratory of humane and progressive legislation and that he also characterized Curley as "the mayor of the poor."

CAHILL SENDS WIRE

Governor Hurley was escorted into the convention hall by a drum and bugle corps. He read a speech in which he outlined accomplishments of his administration in behalf of labor.

At the same time, Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly, also a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, was left out in the cold, as was Horace T. Cahill, Speaker of the House, and Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

10,000 More WPA Jobs Seen by McDonough

In an address prepared for delivery late today before the Worcester convention of the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor, Lieutenant-Colonel John J. McDonough, state administrator of the Works Progress Administration, predicted 10,000 additional workers would be on his payroll by Labor Day.

He declared the state budget for August is $9,310,000, and said the total spent to date on projects in Massachusetts had reached $218,873,716.

McDonough said Harry Hopkins planned to have three million unemployed at work within a short time.

Big Tree Drops Into Earth's Maw

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa., Aug. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Clarence Knode told police a full-grown maple tree in her yard "had disappeared into the earth" when she heard a "rumbling" and rushed out.

Investigators said a subterranean river, discovered in a nearby quarry 50 years ago, apparently had undermined the tree.

Heat Kills 1, 3 Prostrations

Blistering heat caused one death and scores of collapses today as the mercury reached a high of 92.5 degrees at 12:45 p. m.

Easterly breezes, sporadic but helpful, dropped the temperature to 90 by 2 o'clock, however.

James Noonan, 45, of Meridian street, East Boston, dropped dead while moving furniture into a house in Frankfort street, East Boston.

Dr. Arthur Gaglia, neighborhood physician, said death was due to heat prostration and heart attack.

William Kemble, 40, of Oswego street, South End, collapsed in Granite street, East Boston. He was treated at City Hospital for heat prostration and sent home.

HUMIDITY STIFLING

Held at City Hospital after prostration was Thomas Meloney, 74, of Beacon street, Somerville, who collapsed on Embankment road.

Many business houses sent their employes home, and at the State House all workers were dismissed shortly after noon.

BEACHES JAMMED

First surrender to the torrid spell was made by the WPA in Somerville when officials there ordered all workers to go home because of excessive heat. Then its City Hall was stripped to a skeleton staff.

Thousands flocked to beaches for relief and with high tide at 5 p. m., thousands more of stifled workers were counting the minutes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—The temperature at noon today—92 degrees—set a record for the date, but the humidity was low.

The weather bureau said it would be just as hot again tomorrow. The thermometer reached its previous August 3 record of 92 in 1936.

Son Gravely Ill, Seek Parents

In a life-and-death emergency call, Revere police today were asked to find the parents of a Beachmont boy who is on the danger list at Pawtucket, R. I., Memorial Hospital with injuries sustained in diving.

Pawtucket authorities, in their message to Revere, said the lad gave his name as Joseph H. Shaughnessy, 15, of Crest avenue, Beachmont.

They declared hospital surgeons had recommended an immediate cranial operation to save his life but were barred from operating on the boy until the permission of his parents had been obtained.

O'Brien Named District Attorney

Edward L. O'Brien, Northampton attorney, was appointed today by Governor Hurley to be district attorney for the Northampton district, filling the unexpired term of the late David Keedy of Amherst.

Street Car, Truck Collide; 2 Injured

Two men were injured and 30 other men and women were shaken up today when a surface street car and city truck collided in Seaver street, near Elm Hill avenue, Roxbury.

Carmelo Logatti, 55, of Bower street, Roxbury, helper on the truck, was taken to the Boston City Hospital with hip injuries.

Bernard J. Casey of Ashmont street, Dorchester, the truck chauffeur, received treatment from his family physician for back injury.

The surface car, inbound from Franklin Park to Egleston square terminal was operated by Walter A. Newton of Kenwood street, Dorchester. He was uninjured.

His 30 passengers, men and women, were thrown forward in their seats when the collision occurred but none complained of injuries at the scene, Boston Elevated officials said.

Casey told police he was waiting at the Seaver street-Elm Hill avenue intersection for a green light when the trolley car hit his machine.

Nazis to Bar Jewish Doctors

BERLIN, Aug. 3 (INS)—The Nazi regime today ordered medical permits of Jewish doctors revoked, effective September 30.

The order, contained in a decree issued by Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick, constituted a fresh and heavy blow in the Nazi drive to root Jews out of Germany's professional, economic and cultural life.

Frick ruled that all permits allowing Jewish physicians and surgeons to practice medicine will automatically expire September 30 and will not be renewable except in certain exempt cases.

ROME, Aug. 3 (AP)—The government announced today all foreign Jews would be barred from Italian schools beginning with the fall term.

A communique issued by the government said:

"Beginning with the scholastic year 1938-39, the admission of foreign Hebrew students, including those residing in Italy, to all Italian schools of all grades is prohibited."

Dwyer Bares His Love

First Tries to Shield Girl in Story to Jury

Q—You are now an inmate of the State Prison at Thomaston? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Did you murder Dr. James G. Littlefield? A—No, sir, I did not.

Q—Did you see him murdered? A—Yes, sir, I did.

Q—Who did murder him? A—Francis Carroll.

HIS EARLY LIFE

Dwyer testified he was born in Newton Lower Falls, Mass., July 27, 1919. His father, James Dwyer, is dead. He came to South Paris, Me., when he was four years old and lived with his mother and grandmother, Mrs. Leona M. Sears. He told of attending Paris Hill grammar school and South Paris high school.

Q—In high school did you engage in athletics? A—I was not able to.

Q—Why? A—I never was very rugged

Q—Have you been employed since you left high school? A—Occasionally. One of the first jobs I had was caddying at the Paris Hill Country Club. I drove for summer people up on Paris Hill.

Q—Do you remember your father? A—No.

Q—Did you know Archie Smith? A—Yes, he runs a filling station in South Paris. I did a little work for him, not for pay, just for courtesy.

Q—From whom did you obtain funds when you were not employed? A—My mother was always lenient.

TELLS OF BARBARA

Q—Were you acquainted with the boys and girls at the high school here? A—I knew most of them.

Q—In the fall of 1935, had you, before that time, known Barbara Carroll? A—Yes.

Q—Were you interested particularly in Barbara? A—Yes.

Q—Did you attend functions with her? A—Yes.

Q—Did you visit her in her home? A—Yes.

Q—How many young people are there there? A—Barbara, Madeline, Betty and Janet. Barbara is the oldest.

Q—How long did you and Barbara continue your friendliness? A—I think that in the spring of 1936, just before vacation, we decided we were seeing too much of each other and decided to cut down a little.

Q—Did you and Barbara2 become intimate?

BALKS OVER INTIMACY

Judge Fisher—interrupting: "I must advise you as to your constitutional rights. You can, if you wish, refuse to answer."

Q—(by Ingalls, repeating)—Did you and Barbara become intimate? A—I'd rather not answer.

Q—Did you ever speak to Francis Carroll, Barbara's father, and the respondent here, about communications you received from Barbara? A—Yes.

Q—Did you talk with Barbara in the kitchen of her home? A—Yes, one night.

Q—Did you receive the next day a letter from Barbara in which your conversation of the night before was referred to? A—Yes.

Q—Did you discuss with Francis Carroll the contents of that letter, A—Yes, sir.

LETTERS FROM BARBARA

Q—Did you receive other letters from Barbara? A—Yes.

Q—How often? A—Frequently.

Q—Did you have a conversation with Francis Carroll at the Paris Fair Grounds regarding the letters? A—Yes, I did. I saw Barbara that night before I talked to her father. I met her at a dance in Lovell.

Q—What did you tell Francis Carroll at the Paris Fair Grounds? A—I told him if he did the things to Betty he did to Barbara, I would tell Mrs. Carroll. I told him I would show Mrs. Carroll the letters from Barbara about him.

CARROLL'S THREAT

It was about two weeks after this, Dwyer testified, that he received a letter from Lewiston, Me.

The defense objected to this line of testimony unless the letter itself were produced. The state, which alleges that this was one of the letters Carroll obtained back from young Dwyer at the time of Dr. Littlefield's murder, switched from this subject over to young Dwyer's alleged meeting with Carroll in the nearby town of Norway.

"Carroll stopped his car and told me to get in," Dwyer testified. "He said he wanted to talk to me. He told me he wanted the letters."

Q—What did you say? A—I told him I wouldn't give them to him.

Q—What did he say then? A—Then he told me Barbara was pregnant. I told him I didn't believe it. He said if I didn't believe it he would bring Barbara to the house and have her examined. He told me if I didn't give him the letters he would ruin my mother and disgrace Barbara and myself.

RELATIONS WITH BARBARA

Q—What did you say? A—I told him I didn't believe it and I told him to come to my house the next Tuesday night.

At this point Special Prosecutor Ingalls again shot the question at young Dwyer—

"Did you have intimate relations with Barbara Caroll?"

This time Dwyer replied:

"Yes."

Dwyer testified he saw Carroll the next Tuesday night but that Carroll at that time told him Barbara had a previous engagement, but that they would be there the following evening, the night of October 13th.

Q—Had you, previous to this, heard what sounded to you like a shot fired in the vicinity of your home? A—I heard what sounded like a shot, but perhaps it was my imagination. I was going up the lawn at the time. I looked up and saw a black car go by.

CARRIED A GUN

Dwyer testified that it was after this that he began taking a pistol with him when he went to the town of South Paris. He did not carry the gun while he was there, he stated, but cached it in an old truck in back of a filling station.

Q—Before this, your ride from Norway, do you recall walking home with Barbara in the evening? Yes.

Q—What occurred? A—I walked home with her. We talked about one of the letter: she wrote.

CARROLL'S CAR GRAY

Q—What happened that night? A—I started out to the house. I heard a shot. I thought I heard a bullet but, perhaps, that was my imagination. I came into the house and went out of the back door. I heard a car start. I saw this black car.

Q—Did you know Carroll had a car? A—Yes, a gray one. This was black.

Q—And after this you carried a gun back and forth? A—Yes.

SHE HEARS—Barbara Carroll, in court for the first time, heard her father accused by Paul N. Dwyer, once her sweetheart, of slaying Dr. James G. Littlefield, a crime for which Paul is serving life.

Q—Did you lose the gun? A—Yes.

Q—Did you have it October 13? A—No sir.

Q—On October 13, 1937, where were you in the forenoon? A—At home; in the afternoon, around town.

Q—Did you see any particular person in Howard's drug store? A—I saw Dr. Littlefield.

Q—You knew him? A—Very well.

Q—What happened? A—I talked with him. I saw him again that day at 6:45 down at his office.

Q—Did you make a request? A—Yes, I saw him later that night. I went back to his house. He was busy. I saw him driving out of the yard. He slowed down his car. I got in. We talked on the way to my home.

Q—What did you discuss? A—The reasons I asked him to come to my home.

DOCTOR'S PRISON THREAT

Q—Did you see Carroll that evening. A—Yes.

Q—How soon after you were home did you see Carroll? A—He came to the door about ten minutes after we got there.

Q—Did he see Dr. Littlefield? A—Yes, he asked what the hell he was doing there. I told him never mind why I got the doctor, where was Barbara. He said, "Out in the car."

Q—Where was Dr. Littlefield? A—Standing up. Carroll said, "I suppose you know this —— has got my girl in trouble." Dr. Littlefield said, "I know the whole story about Barbara and the letters. Go out and bring in Barbara—I'll examine her." Dr. Littlefield said, "If no one else will put you in state's prison I will." He started upstairs saying, "Between what I know about what you did to Bert's daughter and what Paul has told me you are going to state's prison."

(The reference to "Bert's daughter" was out of a clear sky, and no explanation of the allusion was made. There had been no previous mention of the name.)

Q—Then what happened? A—I heard a commotion and went up. Dr. Littlefield was bent over.

HE SHOWS JURY

Young Dwyer, at this point, demonstrated to the jury the manner in which he said he found the doctor standing.

Q—And then? A—I grabbed a socket wrench from the hall table. I had been carrying it nights after I lost my gun. I swung the wrench at Mr. Carroll. It came apart. I had a hammer in my other hand. Carroll took the hammer away from me. The doctor was in the upstairs hall or inside the bathroom door.

DENIED DEATH INTENT

Q—Where did he fall? A—In the bathroom.

Q—What happened then? A—I said to Carroll he'd killed him or would kill him. He said he didn't intend to and would get some whisky and bring him to.

Q—Did Carroll leave? A—Yes.

Q—Dr. Littlefield was on the floor? A—Yes, he started to come to. I tried to help him. I put my hands under his arms. I took him to the wash basin. He asked for water. I had forgotten the water was turned off.

Q—Did you give him water? A—I couldn't.

Q—When did you see Carroll again? A—As I came out, Dr. Littlefield was moaning, as I was helping him back. He (Carroll) came up the stairs three at a time.

Q—What did you see? A—Instead of whiskey he had a .45. He swung it and hit Dr. Littlefield on the head. He fell out of my arms.

BELT AROUND NECK

Q—Do you know whether Carroll struck Dr. Littlefield again? A—I believe so. I backed out, and sat down. I was faint.

Young Dwyer testified he "must have" fainted. When he came to he said Carroll—

"Had taken the belt off my pants. He told me to put it around the doctor's neck."

Q—And did you? A—No.

Q—Who did? A—Carroll.

Q—Did the doctor speak? A—No. I heard him gasping for breath. He didn't speak.

More Dwyer Testimony

Q—Did the breathing stop? A—Yes.

Q—What about blood? A—Yes, from Dr. Littlefield. I asked him (Carroll) why he'd done it. He said he'd kill me, too, if I didn't give him those letters. I said I would and I got them—the ones from Barbara. I got the letters from where they were hidden and gave them to him.

Q—Paul, referring to the belt on the doctor's throat, you said it was yours? A—Yes, it was hanging on a pair of pants from a hook.

Q—Who took the belt from the trousers? A—Carroll.

Q—What did he say about moving? A—He said we would put the body in the car—to bring the car around back. I went out and got in the car and turned it around and drove it to the back of my house.

Q—When you and the doctor drove up, which way was the car heading? A—Up the hill. There was a car on the opposite side of the road. I saw a car parked there.

COULDN'T CARRY BODY

Q—Now, did you go back to the house? A—Yes. He told me to pick the body up and carry it downstairs. I put my arms under the legs and shoulders and tried to hold him up. I couldn't do it. He weighed too much.

Ingalls, at this point, produced a pair of brown pants which he handed to Dwyer.

Q—What is this? A—My pants.

Q—When did you last wear them? A—At the house that night. I had them on at the time of the killing.

The pants were admitted in evidence as a state's exhibit.

Q—Now, after you undertook to raise the body and failed, what next? A—I asked him to help me. He wouldn't do it.

BLOOD ON THE DOCTOR

Q—Was there blood on the doctor's clothes? A—Yes.

Q—Lying, in fact, in blood? A—Yes.

Q—Blood still coming from the body? A—I didn't notice that. He told me to get a blanket.

Q—Did you? A—Yes.

A blood-stained brown plaid blanket was produced by Ingalls.

Q—Did you ever see that before? A—I believe that is my blanket. Yes, it is.

Q—Is this the blanket you got? A—Yes, from my bed downstairs. I took it, laid it on the floor and rolled the doctor's body onto it.

Q—Did Carroll help you? A—No.

Q—Did you ask him to? A—No.

BODY IN THE TRUNK

Q—How far was the car from the back door? A—Ten feet. I expected the body to be put in the car. We carried it out there, put it on the bumper. I started to open the back of the car. It was locked. He suggested it would be better to put it in the trunk. The body was put on the ground while I got the key.

Q—Was the body put in the trunk? A—Yes, by Carroll and I.

Q—Before the time you went down to get the blanket were there any blood stains on it? A—No.

Prosecutor Ingalls at this point, handed Dwyer a small black pistol, which Dwyer identified as the one he had owned and lost. The gun was admitted in evidence. Ingalls, likewise, produced the head of a hammer which Dwyer identified as being part of the hammer with which he said he armed himself, and which he said Carroll took away from him at the time of the killing.

Q—Was the trunk divided into two parts, upper and lower? A—Yes. The spare tire was in the lower. The trunk was closed after the body was put in.

Q—Did you have any conversation with Carroll? A—I told him Mrs. Littlefield knew where the doctor was and if anything happened, they'd know.

Q—Did you leave home that night? A—Yes.

Q—On Saturday morning, October 16th—you are the Paul Dwyer who was arrested on that date in North Arlington, N. J.? A—I am.

Q—And Dr. Littlefield's body was then in the car? A—Yes, sir.

Ingalls here handed Dwyer a pair of shoes which Dwyer identified as those he wore on the night of the killing.

At this point court recessed until 2:30 p. m.

Cross-Quiz Of Dwyer

Cross-examination by Defense Counsel Clyde Chapman followed the noon recess:

Q—You stated you once loved Barbara? A—Yes.

Q—You love her now? A—Yes.

Q—You have always loved her from the time of your first acquaintance? A—Yes. The state has all the letters I had from Barbara.

Q—You wrote letters to Barbara? A—Yes.

Q—Didn't she return them? A—Yes, long ago.

Q—You did stop keeping company with her? A—Yes.

Q—Kept company with another girl? A—No.

Q—Knew she kept company with another boy? A—No.

Q—How did it happen she returned some letters, not all? A—I don't know.

BREAK WITH BARBARA

Q—Did you have an agreement with Barbara she was to return your letters, you were to return hers? A—Yes, I did, but all the letters were not returned.

Q—You kept those that contained statements as to her past conduct? A—There were others she wrote later. I don't remember if I gave them back.

Q—After breaking off with you, she wrote letters of her past conduct? A—Yes.

Q—Coming down to October 13th, do you remember what you did that forenoon? A—I came to South Paris. I got my own dinner at home.

Q—Did you see Barbara that night? A—No.

Pins Murder on Carroll

Dwyer Vows Ex-Deputy Killed Aged Doctor

Carroll, sweetheart of high school days, sat only a chip-shot in the courtroom from Dwyer as he calmly went into the tragedy of last October 13 when the elderly physician was bludgeoned and strangled to death in the Dwyer home.

BARBARA GOES

Once Barbara, sitting with her mother and making her first appearance in court, suddenly got up and left the room.

She returned within a few minutes, however, and resumed her seat, but not by any sign did Paul indicate that he noticed her.

It is about Barbara that the case revolves — about Barbara's love for Paul, his love for Barbara, her alleged hate for her father, former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll for a sordid mistreatment of her when she was 12—and Carroll's alleged fear of the physician.

Paul was brought into court about five minutes after court formally was convened. He was pale but firm; slight, almost effeminate in appearance, but showed no after-signs of his sudden attack of nervous indigestion that stopped him from taking the stand late yesterday.

He was questioned by Special Assistant Attorney-General Ralph M. Ingalls.

Ingalls' first five questions came in rapid-fire order. Apparently he was determined upon establishing as quickly as possible the basis of the state's case, in order to avoid any possibility of its being overturned later by a recurrence of Paul's illness.

His sixth question was, referring to Paul's naming of "Francis Carroll" as the murderer—

Q—You mean Carroll, the respondent here? A—Yes, sir, I do.

TELLS OF BOYHOOD

Ingalls then began with the more usual questions customarily asked when a witness takes the stand. With quick questions and Dwyer's answers he traced Paul's birth, his arrival in South Paris with his mother when she established their home here, his early youth, and his going to South Paris high school where he met Barbara Carroll.

The crowded courtroom was hushed when Ingalls first asked Paul if he had been intimate with Barbara. The youth hesitated and Judge Fisher broke in with a word of warning as to his constitutional rights, advising that he could refuse to answer if he wished.

"I'd rather not answer," Dwyer replied.

HIS LATER ADMISSION

But later the same question again was put to him by Ingalls and this time Dwyer answered, calmly:

"Yes."

Although the witness stand here is like a British dock, not equipped with a chair, and witnesses expect to stand while giving their testimony, Ingalls obtained for Paul, after the first six questions, the privilege of being seated.

"Your Honor," he requested presiding Justice William H. Fisher, "the witness, as you know, was seized of an attack of nervous indigestion when about to take the stand yesterday. His health, as will be shown, is not of the best. May I request that he be permitted to be seated while giving his testimony?"

Judge Fisher, who had been scrutinizing Paul with stern, but not unkindly, eyes as the youthful lifer stood straight and slim in the witness box, said:

"Why, yes, I see no objection."

And a chair was brought.

STORY THRILLS CROWD

Paul answered the questions in a low-toned but clear voice.

The courtroom was jammed.

Young Dwyer is serving a life sentenced in Thomaston prison for the murder of Dr. Littlefield, which he "confessed"—a confession which he since has repudiated, naming Carroll as the real murderer.

His appearance on the witness stand, however, was not that of a convict. Rather, he might have been any slender, rather good-looking boy from South Paris or Lewiston or Portland or Boston.

DRESSED IN STYLE

His hair has not been clipped, although, it is understood, that is customary in the cases of newcomers at Thomaston.

He wore a dark blue, well-fitting suit, white shirt and plain dark necktie. His shoes were highly polished.

Standing in the witness box, facing diagonally outward into the courtroom with the judge back of his right shoulder and the jury box to his left, Dwyer was facing Carroll, almost directly.

Carroll sat between two deputies in the first row of seats inside the court rail, just by the jury box.

Dwyer did not noticeably look straight at the man he is accusing of one of the most brutal murders in the annals of the state of Maine. Nor did he, with any obvious effort, avoid Carroll's gaze.

Carroll, flanked by his guards, had entered the courtroom a few minutes earlier, after the judge and jury had been seated.

BARBARA NOT LISTED

He wore his usual light tannish suit, walked up the center aisle from the back of the courtroom with a peculiar mincing, swaggering "policeman's stride," glancing slightly from right to left, a tight-lipped smile, almost a grimace, on his mouth. Dwyer was then not in the courtroom, but soon was brought in.

Regarded as highly significant today was the fact that Barbara is not—at least not yet—among the state's witnesses, 27 of whom officially were designated yesterday by being sworn in en masse.

She is expected, as a matter of course, to be among the witnesses called for her father's defense. But if the state does not also call her as one of its own witnesses, lawyers here explained today, it will mean that she may come under fire.

If she is the state's witness, the state can not attack the credibility of her testimony. But, if she is a defense witness solely, then the state may subject her to most searching cross-examination.

POLICEMAN ON STAND

Following young Dwyer's illness yesterday Ingalls was reluctant to start his presentation of evidence without Dwyer as his first witness. He asked the court's indulgence, hoping apparently that Dwyer would be sufficiently recovered at least to put in an appearance on the stand and start his testimony before the day was ended.

After waiting a short time, however, Judge Fisher ordered the state to proceed. Lieutenant Leon Shephard, chief of detectives of the Maine state police, was called as a stop-gap.

His testimony consisted, in the main, of a description of the interior of the Dwyer home on Paris Hill, where the murder occurred, as it was found after the murder became known.

Dwyer Doesn't Blame Barbara

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 3—Barbara Carroll, adored once as the schoolboy love of Paul Dwyer, still has his best wishes despite an association which led to his life imprisonment for murder.

The frail youth who once called Barbara "the sweetheart who fulfills my life" speaks of her gallantly and with respect.

He bears her no ill will. He wants her to be happy.

"I do not blame Barbara for anything that has happened," he told interviewers.

"I have only deep sympathy for her and deep regard. I have absolutely no feeling of bitterness, no matter what may happen.

"I hope everybody will give her a real break, and realize that it is not her fault, and that she is a victim of circumstances. I wish her every happiness, and I hope that when all this is over she will be able to forget it and that it will leave no scar.

"She has suffered, too, and through no fault of her own. I can say with absolute sincerity that I do not blame her for anything. I hope everyone will be kind to her."

Mosquito Bite Kills Jersey Boy

BAYONNE, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP)—Ray Stanelis, 12-year-old son of a cabaret owner, died in Bayonne hospital last night of lockjaw which physicians said resulted from an infected mosquito bite.

London's Ledge Girl Rescued

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Emily Arkwell gave policemen and firemen some anxious moments today as she emulated John Warde, spectacular New York suicide, and defied attempts to rescue her from a ledge 50 feet above the ground.

Clad only in a nightgown, the inmate of the East Croydon Moral Welfare Home climbed from her room to the ledge and threatened to jump if anyone went near her.

As a big crowd gathered, firemen worked feverishly to prevent a jump. They spread a jumping sheet and padded the street with mattresses and pillows collected from nearby houses.

Two extension ladders were run up to the ledge as the girl clung to the ivy-clad wall and shivered in the cold dawn breeze, and again threatened to jump. The crowd missed a heartbeat several times as the girl swayed and almost fell.

But, unlike the young New Yorker who plunged to his death from a 17-story ledge after many suspense-ridden hours, the rescue attempts had a happy climax. While the girl's attention was distracted from below, watchers reached out a window and seized her wrists.

She was taken to a hospital for observation.

Court Returns Seized Wines

More than $1800 worth of expensive liquors and rare wines, seized at the Coolidge street, Brookline home of Irving C. Ruby, last April, were ordered returned to him today by Judge Thomas F. Quinn of Brookline court.

Judge Quinn upheld the defense of Ruby that he had been given the whiskies and wines in payment of a debt and declared he was not satisfied with the police evidence of an alleged sale.

Thief Named Monk Killed by Cop

LYNN, Aug. 3 (AP)—A policeman's bullet today ended the life of a thief discovered in the act of stealing a bottle of milk from a doorstep. The victim was the largest of three monkeys which recently escaped from a zoo and which have been subsisting largely on stolen milk, causing a flood of complaints from residents.

Portland Girl, 20, Dies in Car Crash

CARMEL, Me., Aug. 3 (AP)—An auto accident today killed Miss Pauline Winckler, 20, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar G. Winckler of Portland, and injured five others.

Failing to negotiate a curve, the truck in which the victims were riding left the highway and overturned.

Simone Goes In a Huff, Taxes Paid

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP)—Trouble beset Simone Simon on every side today, but she finally was permitted to sail for Europe with the blessing of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

That came after the liner Normandie had been held up for 10 minutes while the movie actress searched frantically for papers which would convince a special representative of the bureau that she had made a $4000 payment on her last year's earnings.

Kneeling on one of the beds in her suite, Miss Simon said fervently:

"I have paid my tax, and I wouldn't get you in trouble for the world. If you find that I have not paid, I will come right back and give it to you."

The representative was adamant. The liner remained at the pier until Miss Simon found the papers in a misplaced bag.

Miss Simon said her contract with Twentieth Century-Fox had not been renewed.

Punctuating her remarks with rapid gestures, she said:

"I won't work for them, I am finished, through, all done and I don't want to talk about them. I might never come back to the United States."

Timilty Must Stick to Lists

The full board of the State Civil Service Commission today denied Police Commissioner Timilty's request for authority to promote patrolmen to the rank of sergeant by reason of "special qualification."

The commission ruled that promotions must be made from a list of candidates ranking highest in a competitive examination, to be given, this year, on Oct. 1.

Priest Injured Slightly in Crash

WORCESTER, Aug. 3 (AP)—Coming here to attend Rev. Michael J. O'Connell's funeral tomorrow, Rev. Michael A. Saab, pastor of St. Anthony's Church, Springfield, was forced off the road by a truck and collided with two parked automobiles on Southbridge street, near Hope ave., this morning.

Only slightly injured, Father Saab was given emergency treatment.

Roosevelt Has Final Day of Fishing

Little Pig Went to Market--and How

This little pig went to market.

He was bound for the slaughter house with six other pigs, bound for doom and a frying pan. He must have sensed it was a one-way ride.

On Western avenue, near Central square, Cambridge, he "oink-oinked" and jumped the barrier of the truck, scuttled across the street—into a butcher shop.

Patrolmen Thomas Leary and William Harvey cornered him under a showcase full of sausages. Piggie continued his ride to doom.

Boston After Dark

By JACK CONWAY

JUDGE ERNEST FOSS, of Newburyport, in resigning because "the Justice job down here isn't worth a damn since the Supreme Court order," led the way for other judges who are fretting under the new restrictions, which do not allow them to practice in their own courts . . . Special Justices have been trying to get the legislature to change the setup of the lower courts, so that they would be placed on circuits with full time pay.

JACK CONWAY

The Supreme Court rightfully felt it was not good ethics for a Special Justice to be appearing as private counsel in his own court . . . A few years ago it was not uncommon to see a Special Justice sitting on the bench passing out sentences to bootleggers one day and, maybe on the next, acting as defense counsel for a law violator who could pay a fat fee.

The compensation paid to Special Justices is very low and they feel they are entitled to better pay and more regular work if they are to devote all their time to the bench . . . Members of the Superior Court bench and of the Supreme Court, who are paid fair compensation for their services, never accept private cases . . . Special Justices, often getting as low as $1000 a year, are frequently compelled however to engage in private practice to keep the sheriff off their doorsteps.

Danno Had to Pay Before He Could Sail

DAN O'MAHONY, Irish heavyweight wrestler, was obliged to make a last minute payment of income taxes on money made to date before he was permitted to sail on the Lancastria last night . . . Danno has been paying U. S. income taxes for three years, but, under the latest ruling of the Treasury Department, taxes must be paid on money earned up to the date of sailing, in case of aliens . . . This is the result of Max Schmeling getting out of the country a few years ago owing Uncle Sam $24,000 . . . If Schmeling had not departed for his home overseas after the government never would have collected its $24,000.

Singers and other foreign entertainers who come to this country for short tours must get clearance papers from the income tax department before being permitted to sail . . . Danno will wrestle Steve Casey for the world's heavyweight championship in Dublin, on August 15 or August 22.

JOE DIPESA tells this column that the moving picture industry will spend $5,000,000 extra for advertising during the season that opens in September.

"Going to the movies is a habit," said Joe, "and one must keep people attending the films regularly to maintain box office figures. The $5,000,000 extra for advertising will be used to build general movie interest and will not ballyhoo any particular picture . . . The producers will pour millions into newspapers, magazines and radio stations telling about their pictures . . . Ninety-five per cent of the additional $5,000,000 appropriation will be spent in newspaper advertisements . . . A tribute to the power of the press . . .

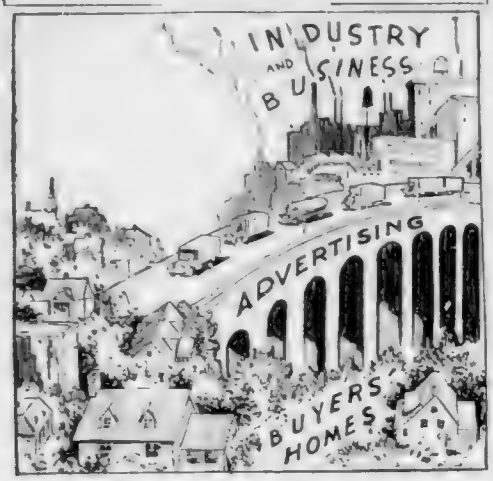
The Prosperity Bridge



The Editor Says:

The selling of merchandise and services always has been and always will be an important and PROPER function of industry and commerce.

Our nation's life is based entirely on production and use of goods and services. We prosper or languish according to the volume of that interchange.

Every man's job is concerned with the production of something or service to other men, use or need and his own needs and desires in turn provide outlets for the wares and services upon which the livelihood of others depends.

Everybody understands the necessity of free and voluminous exchange of goods and services.

Everybody should understand the vital relationship between manufacturing and marketing goods and services and ADVERTISING.

The Political Parade

BY GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
WASHINGTON August 3

WITH the Texas primaries the Lone Star delegation to the 1940 Democratic national convention slips unobtrusively out of the New Deal column.

Mr. Roosevelt has lost not merely two or three but risks in Congress but as the nomination of W. Lee O'Daniel for governor a nomination which puts it's election in the bag. He has lost the big slice of delegates to the next national convention of the party.

On the Washington horizon O'Daniel rises today as the dominant figure in Texas politics for the next ten years.

It wasn't brought out very strongly in the press reports of the campaign but the gentleman who is destined to lead the Democratic party in Texas is a pronounced anti New Dealer.

In his fight for the nomination he carried all New Deal support and waved aside proffers from Governor Allred.

O'Daniel rather than Vice President Garner will head the Texas delegation to the next national convention.

To a lesser extent Garner will hold the Texas delegation but the gentleman who has been referred to as the next Congressional Speaker of the House has lost much of his prestige.

• • •

WHAT EFFECT the primary results may have upon the senatorial situation [illegible] to be seen. Washington [illegible] the [illegible] next Congress [illegible] as [illegible] as [illegible] and [illegible]

Meanwhile [illegible] the Senate [illegible] the House debate [illegible] amendment [illegible] Texas [illegible] of [illegible]

[illegible] that [illegible] it was [illegible] that Allred [illegible] could [illegible] command [illegible] now [illegible] the [illegible] would be [illegible] in the [illegible]

Now note how the New Deal performs its wonders. When that House bill was before the Senate judiciary committee the Department of Justice urged that the restrictive amendment be eliminated, and gave OFFICIAL ASSURANCE THAT NO JUDGE WOULD BE APPOINTED save in a district of which he was a resident.

On this assurance the amendment was eliminated.

MR. O'DANIEL is now being strongly urged in Texas to lead the fight against the confirmation of Governor Allred. He has the matter under consideration according to information which has reached Washington.

If he does he will make it very uncomfortable for Senators Sheppard and Tom Connally not to resist confirmation in the Senate.

Creaking Bones Refute Fibs About One's Age

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and [illegible])

MUSSOLINI was 55 the other day but nobody in Italy dared mention it in public because he is quite sensitive about his age and we wish to state that we are eye to eye with him in this matter.

If we had the power we would throw into jail anybody who is impolite as conjectured about our age. We might excuse a chance remark that we do not look a day over 36 but like Mussolini we would prefer complete silence on the subject.

It is the inalienable right of every American citizen never to count his age certainly if possible, or to be about as touchy as he pleases. He is privileged to be himself younger by anywhere from two to ten years according to what his appearance permits him to get away with.

However it is not to [illegible] that a man cease lying himself younger when he [illegible] knowledge of it. He should [illegible] begin [illegible] himself from [illegible] ten years older if he remains in the state of excellent physical preservation. This makes it [illegible] stories and letters [illegible] so well [illegible] solve extreme [illegible] peace and is [illegible] called to win public admiration.

SOME fellows can be themselves younger with such conviction that they finally commence to believe it themselves. The only trouble is they never can convince their bones.

A man's hair and teeth may go along with him in the act but not his bones. They have no vanity about the years. A man is as young as his bones permit him to feel. A woman is as old as her hands look, [illegible] not intended bringing the [illegible] into this discussion of age. As far as we are concerned [illegible] [illegible] ageless.

Love Authority Speaks Out On:

Petting---Problem of the Generation

Drinking And Petting

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority of Problems of Love and Marriage

To indulge in heavy petting after drinking is about as safe for the average girl as to clean her gloves and fripperies with gasoline in a room where an open fire is burning.

This statement is based on hundreds of letters which have come to this column. If you must pet please be sober when the petting party is launched.

The pity of it is that these petting affairs, which so often end disastrously for girls, are apt to be caused by wine.

Characteristic phrases in a questionnaire issued to young college men, and quoted in a book, Youth and Sex, are: "A good fellow to make if she is right and girls who go the limit are generally drunk" and "drunk or sober, a good time is a great help to romance." The author goes on to comment in regard to the attitude of young men that it is a mixture of inexperience and selfishness. They want to have a good time and the devil take the hindmost.

Where we are on the subject of drinks and petting we might look up the question of good form in the hitchhiking of upper Fourteenth Street author of a book of etiquette for college girls but not to say:

If you are a coed who wants to drink it is well to say to yourself that even the people who think it is smart to drink think it disgusting not to hold their liquor. Few men admire a drunken girl or enjoy taking care of a sick one, so be certain you can stay sober before you start.

It seems strange to a coed of an older generation that girls who go to good colleges today would need advice of this sort but apparently they do. Equally surprising is the case of a good many girls who put up with the acquaintance of half-sober young men rather than go without dates together.

To me this seems a foolish choosing, especially when girls drink not because they enjoy it but because they don't want to appear prudish, old-fashioned, Victorian. Such girls are "flying blind," not knowing at what moment they will bump into dangers so serious that one prefers to leave them to the imagination rather than discuss them in cold print.

The average girl will go pretty far to avoid the reputation of being an "icicle" or "frigid." And the average boy of college age is unmistakably a "hunter." Some of them try a romantic approach, but all of them, to resort to college slang, are frankly curious to discover if a girl is a "hot waffle" or a "cold potato." It takes a clever girl to handle the hunters with dexterity.

By the time these youths of college age have the price of a marriage license, they are a little suspicious of the girls who are too "easy."

These are the problems which did not confront your mother or your grandmother; in those pre-automobile days when they went on a straw ride, the chaperone was as conspicuous as the hay.

Write to Beatrice Fairfax on your problems and of your conclusions through experience in love and marriage.

High Fashion in Furs

SO APPEALING to the luxury-loving soul of woman are furs . . . that August heat or no, one simply can't help but react to their lure . . . and when they're as highly styled as these two black Persian finds, the thermometer is forgotten!

Slimmest waistline on a fur coat that's ever happened—that is the achievement of the model on the left. Tapered darts, to look like folds, bring the waist down to what might be normal in a frock! Again they bring in fullness so that the skirt flares out. Note the tiny collar and the sleeves.

Right, a straight, boxy coat has Schiaparelli's famous new "bump up" sleeves. A clever jeweled pin and velvet scarf come with the coat. For shopping information, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 6000, week-days until five, or write her at the Boston American.

You and Your Vacation

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

When you are planning for a long train journey it is best to have your railroad tickets and Pullman reservations well in advance for a very long journey, "through" tickets and reservations.

Give careful consideration to the luggage that you will need. The experienced traveler wisely "travels light." Don't take any more luggage than you will really need, for every extra piece will mean extra trouble. A trunk may or may not be an essential. Many people prefer to travel with the ample-sized pieces of luggage, and with the combination hat and shoe box. But "on land or sea," an overnight bag, fitted or not, is now regarded as practically indispensable for the traveler.

In this we put our robe, a dark tailored [illegible] looking and most convenient sleeping garment; slippers of leather slippers that fold and fit into a small case and pajamas for [illegible] and toothbrush, tooth powder, mouth wash, soap, towels and combs and a [illegible] the woman that [illegible] using cold [illegible]

Fastidious people dress for travel as they do for any other public place. They take special care that their clothes are not only good-looking, but appropriate as well. Dark colors are obviously more suitable for travel. Materials should be [illegible] that do not easily crush or wrinkle . . . and nowadays it is easy to find these. Simple accessories should be chosen.

It is true [illegible] as you will see by short observation [illegible] that women who are accustomed to travel in the correct manner wear their hats and gloves more than do women who are unaccustomed to travel. The woman accustomed to travel wears her hat and gloves during [illegible] observes, she wears her hat to the dining car and [illegible] long journey . . . provides herself with fabric gloves to protect her hands during the [illegible] journey.

[illegible] H. Curtiss, secretary [illegible] Packing Company.

"Mr. Cudahy, Jr., asked the writer to acknowledge for him the receipt of your letter of July 19th, and the pamphlet entitled 'Streamlined Financial Statements' which accompanied it.

"Mr. Cudahy thinks well of your suggestions and will give them due consideration when we are preparing our next annual report.

[illegible] Lewis, [illegible] of Publicity, [illegible] of Power.

"You send R. F. Wesser a copy of the booklet entitled 'Streamlined Financial Statements.' I am much interested in this. There is one or two of our other clients who I think would like to be very much interested and I wonder if you could send me a couple of copies which I could hand them."

• • •

[illegible] C. Dennison, [illegible] Coordinator Corporation.

"I was particularly pleased to receive it because I recently have started the collection of a library on the subject of Public Relations and I get from your pamphlet suggestions which I know are going to be helpful to my corporation."

From Ernest L. Ostlund, chairman, [illegible]

"Thank you for your courtesy in sending me copy of your pamphlet 'Streamlined Financial Statements.' It is very interesting and, undoubtedly, industrial corporations can utilize it in their publicity."

• • •

From Charles A. Segner, vice president, American Federation of Investors, Inc.

"Thank you for sending me 'Streamlined Financial Statements,' which I know from a glance through its pages will provide an interesting and profitable study."

• • •

From F. P. McConnell, secretary, Sears, Roebuck & Co.

"We are in agreement with your feeling as expressed in your letter of July 19th, that company statements should be so simple and clear as to be plain to any stockholder or any employe connected with the concern. We also believe that not enough has been done to convince the average citizen that because business is big it is not necessarily bad."

• • •

From Charles H. Swift, chairman of the board, Swift and Co.

"This will acknowledge your letters of July 19 to myself and some of the other officers, with copies of 'Streamlined Financial Statements' and the very appropriate subtitle, 'For Whom Does Capital Work?'

"You have certainly shown how forceful the story told by the usual form of the prosaic financial statement can be made by 'streamlining.' I should be glad to have twenty-five copies for some of our other officers and departmental heads . . .

"You are doing a much needed work in illustrating how this message might be conveyed to those associated with large industrial enterprises."

Austen Lake Tells About

Horseback Roughhouse; Or Suffolk Rodeo Girls

THE PUNGENT PERFUME OF STABLE sweepings, harness leather and damp earth still pervades Suffolk Downs—the unmistakable odor of the rodeo. Slink-hipped men in corset-tight pants, fancy boots and awning hat-brims, are swapping banter with pint-sized cow ladies—quaint people from the far corners of our National crazy quilt, raw-hide gentry with parenthetical legs bent from hugging calico broncs, hard-shell females who think nothing of splintered bones and sun-creased men who walk with perpetual limps and speak the lazy lingo of the deep South.

AUSTEN LAKE

The race-stretch before the grandstand is fenced at either end, forming a six-foot enclosure where the mustard colored "jugheads" comes "sunfishing" from the saddle chutes, frightened rodeo calves are roped by the heels, adult steers with hatrack horns are wrestled or wild cows are milked meagerly against time.

A pretty lady made of fiddle-gut and tubular steel, risks unhooking her spine to ride one of the horrors across a soft spoken bronc no larger than the standard size jockey who would look good in flannels or goodies at a Harvard supper dance. Miss Opal Wood of Ballenger, Texas.

She is suffering from an ankle dislocation at the moment having the ailing hinge bound with flannel bandages soaked in Mercurochrome. A webbing of scar tissue runs across her knee. She has been kicked senseless by cows ruled under a 600 pound mustang, spurring her shapely pants against the fences and tested her anatomy like a touch but pliable tube steak.

Ladies Who Can 'Take It'

RODEO MONEY IN THIS LITTLE trailer carnival is the wages of pain. For cow ladies like Opal, Millie Mix Horner, Mary Parks, Nellie Rogers and the other cow-cuties risk their charming skeletons in a commercialized roughhouse which would make the job of a varsity football tackle look like tea at the Ritz.

Now according to Opal Wood, are the bovine beauties a special breed of bow-backed bodies blessed with reinforced frames, tall-in-the-saddle nerves and a passion for the school of hard knocks. They are say she, born girls who fell victim to environment. In fact she thinks any Eastern party girl of the upsack and fluffy female type might have taken to bronc busting if reared in the rugged leather-y surroundings of a daddy owned stock farm or dude ranch. Instead of in the saddle instead of in a coach bucket seat, trail herd on cocktail cow. Custom and necessity make a lady's ride she tosses and fumes the range is where she finds it. The fences, patent leather of urban existence holds no charm to Opal's doughnut size she says. Europe's are spent in the coaches, company of farm people or ranging sets, to the wail of a fiddle or whooping the sun set and after that the stars. Their days are passed in saddle to the dogies, dilling bale-faced steers, hunting strays and eating chuck wagon fare.

"So," says Miss Wood, as though totalling a simple sum, "I took tuh ridin' ro-day-o."

WITH LUCK IN AVOIDING CRACKUPS AN upperflight cow girl may win between $1800 and $2700 in a season of riding the hoodlum horses, out of which she must pay hotelage, haulage and roughage on clothes, not to mention medical bills. For busted bones or the after effects of jouncing her jiblets on the poop deck of a rowdy dobbin are her hard luck, on the promoter's theory that if a lady is daffy enough to risk her delicate entrails in so demented an endeavor she deserves a later life of muscle cramps and spinal stoops. No sympathy is wasted, and most rodeo proprietors discourage the distaff side from following their shows.

Among the cowmen roping is the sporting slicing of a tail ranger, because the art of spancing the posse under a cow's kicking hocks is acquired just the fortunate ills of baseball at an early boyhood age or not at all. Prize roping and hobbling are regarded as circus acrobatics, requiring only a crude kind of muscularity, steady nerves and the rudiments of horsemanship. A bulldogger like a mad wrestler must be tough and able to take it. But the genuine punches sniffs a scornful snort at the bulk of the steer wrestlers, most of whom would be as helpless as a hay farmer in the spectacular routine of a rounding.

East Dresses the Wild West

MOST OF THE WESTERN RANGE AND rodeo equipment comes from the East, and the best cow ropes, or lariats, are made by the Plymouth Cordage Co. on the Cape—tough hemp lines especially adapted to tangling 600 pounds of wild beef on a rampage, having the strong look of standard window sash cord and selling at 90 cents the 28-foot length. Also the typical Stetson hat, with the coal-scuttle crown and wide brim, is made in Philadelphia at the average price of $20. Most of the pin-heeled, scalloped, scroll leather boots are made in New England, and the better saddles, with their rocking chair seats and horn pommels, are imported from London. So, notorially, your well dressed cow hand is a product of the effete East.

Like polo players, the bulldoggers and calf ropers carry their own strings of ponies, each carefully schooled to the knack of ducking out from under and swerving away as their owners dive from the saddle for the steer's horns, or dismount in their bandy legged gallop to the maverick's shins. Time is money here, and a smart pony is worth his weight in gold dollars, $300 to $1000 each.

And, like college football, the rules of bronc riding are rigid. No spasmodic clutching for the saddle horn, no protective padding to soften falls, no smacking the hoss's flank with the hat, no steadying of the heels against the animal's brisket, no wrapping of the reins around the knuckles. One hand must be waved free and gracefully, the spurs must "scratch" the steed's flank at every leap and, after the fashion of judging figure skaters for their curlicues, the riders are rated on the grace of their execution and the rhythmic way they ride the waves.

Basket Fund Golf Aug. 28 At Belmont

Two years ago, the Belmont Country Club donated its course for a Boston Evening American Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund exhibition match in which Lawson Little, former United Staates and British amateur champion, and the long-hitting Jimmy Thompson defeated Francis Ouimet and Jesse Guilford before one of the largest galleries ever to watch a golf tilt in this country.

A year ago the Belmont Country Club again tendered its $1,000-a-side team match play contribution for the sole purpose of offering New England golf addicts, at no charge, the pleasure of watching professionals in action.

Now the same club has again donated the course for the 1938 Boston Evening American Sunday Advertiser Christmas Basket Fund.

Ostermueller Is Now on Spot | Must Deliver or Go to Minors

By JACK CONWAY

FRITZ OSTERMUELLER must deliver for the Red Sox or he will be joining Johnny Marcum in a minor league. It has been known for some time that Ostermueller and Marcum were in disfavor with the Sox management as a result of their inability to pitch winning baseball.

Mr. Boston

There wasn't an American or National league club that would pay the waiver price of $7500 for Marcum. It is also unlikely that any club would separate itself from $7500 to add the erratic Ostermueller to its payroll.

Ostermueller has been one of the most disappointing pitchers to ever join the Sox. As a minor leaguer, Ostermueller appeared to possess about everything in the pitching line except control. It was felt that with experience Fritz would acquire control, but he has failed to do so.

When Ostermueller has one of his good days, which have become more infrequent with the passing years, he looks like one of the greatest southpaws in baseball, and he gains the wholehearted support of the fans as well as that of the Sox management. Then Ostermueller loses control again, and he is a soft touch for any fair ball game.

The pitching problem of the Red Sox has been so serious that Joe Cronin has been obliged to hold on to any flinger who looked as if he could get a baseball as far as the plate. Even before "Lefty" Grove experienced trouble with his arm, the plight of the Sox pitching department was a pitiful one.

The deals by which the ancient Bill Harris, right-handed pitcher, and Joe Heving join the Sox pitching staff and Jim Tabor comes to play third base will give the Yawkeymen some temporary help. It is a case of where Harris, Heving and Tabor may be able to help in a situation where the club is badly crippled and in need of reinforcements.

Nobody knows any better than Joe Cronin, Eddie Collins and Tom Yawkey what the Sox need in pitching, catching and infield strength to make them a pennant winner. If you could produce the necessary players, I know Yawkey would not hesitate to write the check to close the transaction regardless of how large the amount might be.

It is one thing to sit back and find fault with a ball club, and another to fill the gaps caused by aching arms and crippled limbs.

McCoy and Thomas in Montreal Ring

AL McCOY, New England heavyweight champion, will make another effort to get his ring campaign going properly when he clashes with Harry Thomas of Chicago in a ten-round bout in Montreal tomorrow. McCoy has lost two out of his three comeback bouts, and is eager to come through with a smashing victory tomorrow evening.

Frequent bouts have helped McCoy regain his former timing, and have also improved his punch. Al has also reduced his waist line, and this will help his speed and wind.

Thomas fought Max Schmeling and Joe Louis last winter. He made a better showing against Schmeling than he did against the "Brown Bomber."

Thomas will outweight McCoy by 20 pounds tonight. Al will try to offset this weight advantage held by Thomas by superior speed.

JOHNNY BUCKLEY has been carrying on negotiations for the past week with Eddie Mead in an effort to get Henry Armstrong to come to Boston to meet Andy Callahan. Callahan recently won from George Martin of the South End at Providence, and will try to add Ralph Zanelli to his list of victims in Providence a week from Monday night.

Armstrong is definitely headed for Boston, and it is only a question who will be his first opponent. It was for a time believed Sammy Fuller would be Armstrong's opponent when the champion came here.

As Armstrong is an active fighter, it would be helpful to the boxing game in this city if he were to clash with both Callahan and Fuller.

Irish-American A. A. Amateur Bouts

GEORGE FREEMAN of the Irish-American A. A. dropped in today with the information that his live wire organization would be back in action at the Arena on September 26. The Irish-American A. A. will open its fall boxing season with a Golden Glove tournament which will last five weeks, and which is expected to furnish some high class boxing.

Amateur boxing has produced many outstanding boxers during the past few years. The tournaments conducted by the Irish-American A. A. have done much to help this condition.

If professional boxing is to gain its former standing in this city, it must recruit its ranks from simon pures who have made good.

It is likely that there will be two small professional clubs conducting weekly shows in Boston during the indoor season. These clubs will give graduates of the amateur ranks an opportunity to do some punch tossing against boys who have not had more experience than themselves.

St. Augustines Face Tribunes In Park Playoff

Roslindale Town club became the first and only team to reach the Boston Park League semi-finals last night, walloping the Maddens, 12-3, for two straight victories.

The Townies mark time tonight while St. Augustines and the Hyde Park Tribunes get together for their third and deciding game at the South Boston stadium.

The Parkians took the first clash Monday at Southie, and the Saints evened the count at Hyde Park with Tommy Bilodeau, former Harvard captain, driving in four runs with his homer, double and single.

Tonight Bill Benson of the Saints will use Frank Hadley on the mound, with Sheehan and Harris ready to step in, and the Tribunes will call on Charley Deneen, who started the first game.

Curt Fullerton kept the Holy Name nine in the running by turning in his patented brand of hurling before the largest crowd of the year at Fallon field.

After the game, Manager Johnny Delang of the Holy Namers said that Curt would get the nod tonight in the third game at Rogers Park.

After taking the opener Monday, the Knitters confidently expected to end the preliminary series last night at Neponset, but were lucky in the end to tie the game, thus sending the third game back to the Garvey Playground in Neponset.

Burk Boy Points for Olympics

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3 (AP)—Joe Burk, diamond sculls, U. S. and Canadian singles champion, is grooming his younger brother, Jim, as his partner for the Olympic doubles rowing competition in 1940.

The Penn A. C. star believes his 22-year-old brother, now a junior at the University of Pennsylvania, soon will have the necessary experience to try out with him for an Olympic berth.

"Jim started competitive rowing in the freshman eight two years ago at Penn," Joe said today. "Last season he was No. 6 in the junior varsity eight and from what Coach Rusty Callins says, Jim is a good sweepswinger and pulls a powerful oar."

Jim will have two years of varsity crew work before the Olympics roll around.

Women's Team Off for England

LONDON, Aug. 3 (AP)—Five tennis players, selected to represent Great Britain in the American championships, sailed aboard the Queen Mary today.

Kay Stammers, Margot Lumb, R. A. Shayes, Eric Filby and team captain George Patrick Hughes, made up the party. Charles E. Hare, now living in the United States, will join the squad on its arrival.

Medford Midgets To Race Saturday

Many races which have been scheduled at the New Riverside Park Midget Car Speedway in Medford have been called off recently due to the unseasonal rainstorms.

Car owners and race drivers alike have agreed that the Medford Speedway has been the victim of some ominous jinx, and they all have asked for a change in the racing date.

As a consequence, the promoters have changed the race date from Friday night to Saturday afternoon.

'Arm Feels Great,' Says Lefty

Grove Hurls Tomorrow

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3—Exactly three weeks from the day that saw his priceless portside paw go suddenly "dead," a mishap many feared would end his brilliant career, Robert Moses Grove will resume pitching for the Red Sox in the final game of the series with the Indians here tomorrow afternoon.

Lefty Grove

The 38-year-old southpaw marvel definitely reached this decision when he found that the arm which has written 271 victories into big league records was free of the slightest trace of pain, numbness or stiffness after the gruelling test he gave it in pitching batting practice before the Tuesday tilt.

Grove was all smiles after the workout.

"I still must learn whether I can get anybody out, but I feel more confident than I have at any time since leaving the hospital," he chirped.

Sox morale is at a rather low ebb now following the Sunday doubleheader defeat in St. Louis and the dropping of the series opener to the second-place Redskins by the score of 7 to 4.

But the boys will perk right up again and have plenty to say about where the pennant goes if their peerless portsider can steer them to victory on the morrow.

Wood, Hunt Win At Southampton

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP)—Sidney Wood, former Davis Cup player from New York, and Joseph Hunt of Los Angeles, led the parade of the favorites into the second round of the Meadow Club's invitation grass court doubles competition today.

Afraid to Get Married!

HE WAS SO FRAIL, SICKLY

SKINNY!

Posed by Professional Model

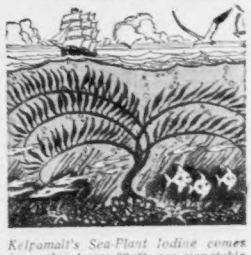
Then He Found This Excellent Mineral-Iodine Concentrate That Gave Him

12 Husky New Lbs. in Quick Time

—Now Looks Fine and Feels Great!

All Skinny Men and Women Should Read This Actual Letter From Our Files.

"Kelpamalt Company, Dear Sirs:
I am a young man of 24, 5' 8" tall, and ever since I can remember, I have been as skinny as a rail. Last year I was engaged to be married but deliberately postponed it because, to be honest, I was really afraid to get married. From time to time I have been sickly and just didn't feel up to accepting the responsibilities that come with marriage. The young lady I was engaged to, I believe, felt the same way, so we postponed it. However, I determined to do something about myself, and I happened to read a Kelpamalt advertisement. I didn't think Kelpamalt could help much, but I thought I would give it a try. You can imagine my delight when I found myself gaining weight, in a little more than two months, I have put on 12 lbs. I feel great and everybody tells me I look fine. Our engagement is on again and the date will soon be set, I hope—thanks to Kelpamalt. — Mr. J. A. H., Long Island, N. Y."
Don't resign yourself to being a skinny, scrawny, physical wreck! Kelpamalt, the improved mineral-iodine concentrate, has put solid, attractive pounds on thousands who were underweight for years. That's because the body's normal chemical processes, which change digested food into rich blood and firm flesh, require certain minerals—elements often deficient in the daily diet. Without them, good nourishment may be wasted. KELPAMALT HELPS PROVIDE THESE NUTRITIONAL ELEMENTS. Its iron, copper, calcium and other minerals, together with its natural sea-plant iodine, help the system get all the real good out of food. Try it. Thousands are amazed at quick gains of solid, "easy-to-have" flesh, often in a few weeks. They say they eat better, sleep better, look better, feel better, too. Kelpamalt costs but little to use and comes in pleasant, easy-to-take tablets! Your own Doctor will approve this way. Get Needs! Kelpamalt today. Sold at all drug stores. And remember—your money back if you are not completely satisfied.



Kelpamalt's Sea-Plant Iodine comes from this huge, 90 ft. sea vegetable that grows off the Pacific Coast.

Whirlwind Strikes Home Plate

JOHNNY MIZE of the St. Louis Cardinals klicks up a cloud of dust as he smashes into home plate, toppling Catcher Campbell of the Dodgers. Cool, tense and right in the middle of it, Umpire Bill Stewart calls the "Gas-Houser" safe. The Dodgers won a double-header from the Cardinals.

Explains Hostak Ban

NEW YORK, Aug 3 (INS)—Commissioner Bill Brown said today that the reason the New York State boxing commission refused to recognize Al Hostak as middleweight champion was that Hostak and Freddie Steele, whom he knocked out, are controlled by the same combination.

"Hostak will be given a chance to prove he's a real champion by meeting the winner of the Fred Apostoli-Young Corbett match scheduled this fall in the Garden. He won't be given recognition until he does so," Brown said.

B. C. Cub First Base Cape Star

By FRANK CONWAY

Cape League Correspondent

BUZZARDS BAY, Aug. 3—Frank McCrehan, Boston College coach, won't have to worry about a first sacker for his 1939 Maroon and Gold nine if he studies the record of Eddie Sawyer, hustling first baseman of the Bourne outfit of the Cape circuit and a sophomore at University Heights.

A former Brockton high school athlete, Sawyer, only 18 years of age, has been playing sparkling ball down here, hitting for .300 and turning in a grand fielding game.

All around the Cranberry loop, the youthful horsehide performer is rated one of the classiest first sackers ever to play in the popular summer circuit.

He works around the bag like Arthur Mahan, Red Sox farm hand, who was with Bourne back in 1934 and is now playing a fine game for Hazleton in the Eastern League.

Along with being a consistent hitter, Eddie is a long distance socker, pacing the Cape in home runs with four. He's also a rabbit on the bases, coming up daily with one or two stolen bases.

He bats and fields left-handed. Last spring he was a member of

EDDIE SAWYER

Dave Concannon's freshman nine at Boston College.

* * *

Falmouth's Walter Sullivan continues to bash the old horsehide. The one-time Cranston, R. I., athlete is sticking for .430.

* * *

Last week Bill Boehner had three doctors in his Falmouth lineup. On first he had Frank Cammarano, a dentist; second, Myron Ruckstuhl, a doctor of philosophy and, third, Everett Donaghy, an M. D. at Boston City Hospital. Donaghy, by the bye, is the same gentleman who captained the Harvard nine back in 1933.

Belair Stud On Block

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug 3 (AP)—Saratoga's annual yearling sales got off to the usual slow start last night but should begin to hit the high spots tnight.

In the little George street paddock, from which has come many a famous thoroughbred to win at the historic track just a short gallop away—and many a lemon as well—the annual consignment of William Woodward's Belair stud will go under the hammer tonight.

Last night's opening sale, featuring the get of Imp. Kantar in the consignment offered by the Holly Beach Farm, brought only $58,500, an average of $1104 for 53 head. Top price was $3700, paid by Harry F. Guggenheim, owner of the Falaise stable, for a colt by Blue Larkspur-Menthol.

Boxing Results

NEW YORK—Enrico Venturi, Italy, outpointed Johnny Bellus, New York, 8. Walter Franklin, New York, knocked out Eddie Ran, Jersey City, N. J., 2. Johnny Fernandez, New York, stopped Jack Haggerty, 142, Worcester, Mass., 4. Primo Flores, Puerto Rico, belted out Eddie Barton, Newark, N. J., 5.

Cissell Anxious To Make Good With Giants

By MORTON MOSS
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—It isn't very often that the horsehide heavens rain manna on the noggin of a chappie with 34 winters and summers in the bank.

Which item accounts for the staunch resolve Chalmer Bill Cissell, an aging apple-knocker of 34, brought with him from Baltimore today as he vowed he'd plug the second base hole in the New York Giants' dike.

Chalmer had a bring-on-those-Cubs gleam in his eye when accosted in the shade of Winsome Willyum Terry's own private dugout at the Polo Grounds.

PLAYBOY DAYS OVER

"Maybe I've been a playboy and maybe I've liked my fun," Chalmer smiled an austere smile. "But those days are gone forever. I've been a Good Time Charley, but that's all over now.

"You can't realize how I appreciate getting another chance in the majors, especially with this club. I'm going to make it stick this time. I'm here to stay."

Bill is the fifth Keystoner Boss Bill has hoped would fill the bill since the lamented loss of Eurgene Whitehead.

Cissell, a former Army man, first zoomed into the majors in 1927 as the gold nugget which cost the Chicago White Sox $75,000 and an army of players, who were packed off to Portland in the Pacific Coast League.

He romped for the Indians, Red Sox and Athletics but never for a National League larrup legion.

"I kinda gave up hope of getting back to the big-time until this year," the grave, brown-faced man said. "I thought I'd just give it one more try. I got into good shape and decided that this season would tell the tale.

FEELS LIKE 20

"It was a last shot at it, you know. If I didn't make it this time, I was going to give up hoping to ever come up again. I may be 34, but I feel like 20. I think I've still got about four or five years of good baseball left in me.

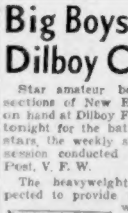
"Gosh, I sure appreciate an opportunity with a pennant club like the Giants." Chalmer "Bill" Cissell permitted himself a slightly wider grin than heretofore.

"It's funny," he laughed, "how the fellows complain about the heat. If this is bad, I wonder what they'd call the heat we have down in Baltimore?"

Big Boys Top Dilboy Card

Star amateur boxers from all sections of New England will be on hand at Dilboy Field, Somerville, tonight for the battling under the stars, the weekly simon-pure jamsession conducted by the Dilboy Post, V. F. W.

The heavyweight class is expected to provide the chief fireworks with four sluggers on hand—Pat Devine, Cambridge; Chuck Prendible, Charlestown; Al Bouchard, Kingston, and Leo Thomas from Haverhill.



Chuck Prendible

Boxing will be in the 126, 135, 160 and heavyweight open classes and 147-pound novice class.

In the 135-pound group are such stars as Al Freda, Milford; Dom Declantis, Providence; Leo Liotta, Somerville, and Gerry Zullo, Chelsea.

Nick Sullo, East Boston, heads the group in the 126's.

Chapman Hit Scores Red Sox Run

CLEVELAND STADIUM, Aug. 3—It was Earl Averill day as the Indians and Red Sox moved into this huge sports crater this afternoon for a doubleheader and a crowd of 35,000 turned out despite the terrific heat.

It was the Forest Citys warmest day of the year with the mercury flirting with the 100 mark.

Averill admirers presented the Indians' veteran centerfielder with an automobile in recognition of his brilliant play for the past 10 years.

Jack "Strong Boy" Wilson, who has scalped the Redskins three times this year, was Manager Joe Cronin's mound selection in the first game.

The Tribe counted with Mel Harder, who whitewashed the Sox in Boston last week and was seeking his sixth straight triumph.

Jim Taber, rookie from Minneapolis, was agai nat third base for the Fenway flock and Bill Harris and Joe Heving, new pitchers, were both in uniform.

FIRST INNING

RED SOX—Cramer singled. Vosmik fouled to Pytlak. Foxx singled. Cronin struck out. Chapman doubled, scoring Cramer. Larry took Doerrs fly. ONE RUN.

INDIANS—Lary filed to Chapman. Campbell got a hit on his pop which Cronin lost in the sun. Campbell stole second. Hale lined to Cramer. Heath struck out. NO RUNS.

Eleven Races At Revere

General Manager Sheldon H. Fairbands of the Old Harbor Kennel Club announces for the balance of this week's racing cards several important events.

For the first time in the history of the beach track, 11 races will be held tomorrow night. The extra race will be the last on the night's card and will involve the same field which went to post Saturday in the 10th race over the Revere Course, but which was declared no race because of Sparky's failure to make the grade.

It comprises in post position order, Guess What, Red Raider, Black Cash, Court Reporter, My Mabel, Ben's Janey, Venus D and Careful Player.

On Saturday night the Wonderland Juvenile Stars Trophy Race, which will be an added purse event, will be held.

He lost his ship!

Not at sea, for he was one of the sea's outstanding heroes.

But he lost it through landsmen's business deals, which tied it up idle in a yard.

So, with no ship and no job, Captain Harold L. Winslow, a native of Quincy and a graduate of the Massachusetts Nautical School, didn't want to live.

FUND DEAL

He was found dead today in his New York apartment, with gas still flowing from open jets.

"Suicide," said New York police.

Veteran seafarers of the port put it differently.

They said:

"He followed a tradition of the sea."

Certainly the sea was Captain Winslow's love.

At 45, he had spent 24 years in deep water service.

His last command was the big Panama Pacific liner, Pennsylvania. She was taken off her run, a few weeks ago, when the United States Maritime Commission gained financial control of her.

NOTED CAREER

Pending business arrangements for putting the ship back in operation again, she was tied up for repairs. That left Captain Winslow "on the beach."

As second officer of the S. S. Republic, he won world fame when he commanded a boat crew which braved heavy weather to take an apparently doomed crew off the foundering Newfoundland schooner, Candel.

That exploit won Second Officer Winslow his promotion to captain's rank. Among the various ships he commanded, with spotless record, most recent were the S. S. President Harding and the S. S. Pennsylvania.

A half brother in Quincy and a brother in Canton survive him.

Million Reds Mass on Border

TOKYO, Aug. 3 (INS)—Soviet air raiders and artillery today brought death to three Korean towns, while all East Asia was alarmed by reports that vast Japanese and Russian armies face each other across the Manchukuo frontier.

About 1,000,000 Red army troops are ready for action along the Siberian side of the long frontier, unconfirmed reports said, while opposing them are 500,000 Japanese soldiers.

(In Hong Kong it was said that Japan is rapidly diverting troops from Shantung and Hopei provinces for Manchurian service.)

Soviet troops, after a bitter close-quarter fight lasting through the night and morning, tonight were officially asserted to be in "general retreat" from the Changkufeng area.

Red army airplanes at the same time intensified their attacks in Korea, the war office charged, with a third swoop on the town of Kojo, and initial raids on Chinsojo and the railroad village of Keiko.

The three towns are all on the right, or Korean, bank of the Tumen river.

Heavy Soviet artillery from across the stream threw shells into Kojo at the same time the bombers were dropping explosives, Korean army headquarters charged at Seoul.
